Aaron Jesus released Aaron from deep pain and hatred against Arabs, Muslims in particular. After Aaron responded to a severe beating by a Muslim with nothing but forgiveness and concern, the Muslim soon gave his life to Jesus.

Berger, Benjamin: _

Part A How an Orthodox Jew, met Jesus and later led a revival in Israel spite of persecution and thus helped start the Messianic movement there.

Part B His work in reconciliation between Germans and Jews. His parents escaped the Holocaust, but his grandparents were killed in Auschwitz.

Danny of The House of Victory Danny is Jewish. He was a dangerous, violent drug addict who hated Arabs. Now he is a pastor who loves Arabs as brothers and sisters.

Lisa (Jewish Mother) A Jewish mother learned to forgive Palestinians, the IDF, and God for the tragedy that happened to her soldier son and now helps others to forgive.

Loden, David & Lisa This Jewish couple found faith in Y'shua as hippies in the USA. They are active in leadership in the Messianic community in Israel and in reconciliation with Arab Christians.

Rachel Accepting Jesus as Messiah brought rejection from her family. Leading Jews to Jesus has brought harrassment by Orthodox Jews. Rachel simply responds in love.

Rosenberg, Joel Read what this best-selling author and Messianic Jew teaches about loving enemies and what happened when he first met Tass Sa'ada (see also his story).

Schneider, Doron "Can an Israeli Soldier Love Arabs?" (Yes!) Doron and Maron (Arab) see themselves as fore-runners for the eternal peace between Jews and Arabs to come.

Thomas, Evan Originally from New Zealand, Evan Thomas is a leader in a Messianic Jewish fellowship. Note how he sees Palestinians being keys in the salvation of Israel.
